

Illegal immigration in GCC: How to manage and respond

By: Colonel Sabah Abdulrahman Al-Gheis, faculty member of Saad Al-Abdullah Academy of Security Sciences.

Considering the wealth of GCC countries, their openness to the world, the facilities they offer and the fact that they are the centers of financial institutions, they are a regular destination of illegal immigrants whether from Arab countries or elsewhere.

In its simplest form immigration is defined as the departure of an individual from his region or country to another with the intention of living there permanently.
